About Me

I'm someone driven by passion and determination rather than just technical knowledge. I'm deeply passionate about software development and everything related to technology. I love learning new skills and exploring emerging tools, whether it's a new framework or programming language. I'm constantly researching the latest trends and staying curious about what's next in tech.

Interests

I'm looking to grow as a developer who constantly pushes boundaries—improving not just my technical skills, but my life overall. I'm seeking new challenges and goals that push me to be my best self every day.
